

Rezoning approved for mobile home subdivision

Two RMH2 Residential Mobile Home Park District lots and one and part of a second C3 Neighborhood Commercial lots in the Park Lane subdivision have been rezoned to RMH1 Residential Mobile Home Subdivision District, following a public hearing last Monday at which no objections to the change were put forth. The bylaw making the changes was given its final two readings during the regular meeting of Town Council which followed.

Ron Chrapko of Park Lane Developments was present for the meeting and told Council he has another 36 lots subdivided and ready to develop should the need arise. He is open to the option of rezoning some of these for houses if necessary. Two Neighborhood Commercial lots, located at the 50th Avenue end of the middle block, are left unchanged by last week's rezoning.

Three local groups who asked for forgiveness of their 1997 taxes will still have to foot a portion of the bill. The Town agreed to forgive the municipal portion of taxes for the Seniors' Recreation Centre, Elks Lodge and Elk Point Curling Club, but the education portion of the tax bills and any frontage improvement taxes assessed on those properties remain the responsibility of the groups involved. The education portion of all tax bills must be forwarded by the Town directly to the provincial

Elk Point Gas

"Fifty years ago, India was being divided, Canada was about to get a new province, and Elk Point got gas," Dick Ziegler, chairman of the Federation of Gas Co-ops, told the large crowd which assembled last Friday to help Elk Point Gas Ltd. celebrate their fiftieth anniversary of providing service to the community. Elk Point Gas has a longer history than the Federation itself, he noted. He presented a congratulatory plaque to Elk Point Gas representative Joe Tredger.

Ziegler's predecessor, Bill Grey, said it has been a pleasure dealing with Elk Point Gas over his eleven years with the Federation, and applauded them on their "safe and economical service" over the years. He had "such a good relationship" with Elk Point Gas, whose board of directors were involved in education and technical issues. "Their support has been phenomenal," he noted, adding that Ray Pratch has been "a tower of strength" in the educational program.

MLA Paul Langevin was on hand to present a congratulatory certificate for the company to Tredger, one of the men who, fifty years ago, "had the foresight" to start up the company which has given excellent service to the town and surrounding rural area for half a century.

Four in a row for Christina Brown

Christina Brown took her fourth Elk Point Fair Grand Aggregate award in as many years this past weekend, with section wins in Baking, Fresh Fruits, Knitting, Crochet and Weaving, and Senior Fair. Lois Yaremkevich, winner of the Canning section, placed second in the Grand Aggregate, while Gisele Pederson, winner of the Vegetables and Flowers sections, was third overall.

Mrs. Brown received a plaque from C. J. Petroleum and a cash prize from Norcen Energy Resources, while Mrs. Yaremkevich's award was donated by Pan Canadian Petroleum and Mrs. Pederson's by Golden Loaf Bakery.

Verona Lea Flanders welcomed a good number of spectators to the presentation of awards, and welcomed everyone to the "new old spot," noting that the Fair had moved back to the A. G. Ross Arena this year, after many years in the Elks Hall and Seniors' Recreation Centre.

In the Canning division, convenor Lois Yaremkevich, who also won the section prize from the Empress Restaurant, said that there were 11 exhibitors and 136 entries this year, up from 114 last year. There were 108 winning entries.

Baking was convened by Lyn Young, who presented Christina Brown with the prize from Elk Point Co-op. A nice selection of entries was displayed, ranging from plump loaves of homemade bread to decorated cookies to enticing squares.

Gerry Lee convened the Arts, Crafts and Hobbies section, and was thrilled to also be its winner, accepting a prize from Elk Point Insurance and Realty. The 104 entries almost doubled the 1996 total, and was the largest group of entries in the section since 1989. Mrs. Lee noted that the judge had been very impressed by the quality of work in the entries, which included everything from hand-quilted quilts to Christmas ornaments.

Vegetables, convened by Katherine Shymkiw and sponsored by Cal's Home Hardware, was another section which grew this year, with 141 entries compared to 116 last year. Gisele Pederson was the winner. Mrs. Shymkiw thanked the regular competitors for coming back this year, and welcomed a number of new entrants.

Half a century for Elk Point Gas

Tredger said that when the company was started in 1947, "Elk Point didn't have much to offer the world," with no running water, muddy streets and power furnished by a plant owned by Dr. Miller and Dr. Ross, "although we did have some of the best health care in the province." He recalled the day Dr. Ross asked him if he were tired of shoveling coal for heating, and if he was interested in becoming part of a new venture of providing natural gas to Elk Point homes. "We were very successful with our first well," and have been making progress ever since that time, he said. He recalled good times with other early members of the co-op, such as Paul Stepa and Paul Petrosky.

Elk Point Gas hosted a well-attended open house to celebrate the anniversary, with guests enjoying beef on a bun and refreshments, and having an opportunity to meet with the directors of the gas co-op.

treasury, and if these were forgiven, the Town would have to pay the education tax on their behalf.

Three upcoming events were proclaimed. September will be Muscular Dystrophy Association Awareness Month, September 14 will be Terry Fox Day, and October 15 to November 1 will be Canadian Diabetes "Month" in Elk Point.

An offer to purchase for four of the remaining industrial lots was discussed at some length, and was accepted on condition that another business puts their lots into one block. The sale could eliminate the need to develop 45 Street, and first reading was given to a bylaw that would close the street allowance.

A policy that concrete vaults must be used at Elk Point's East Cemetery was established by Council.

Bert Croteau named CPCA's 1997 champion driver

Bert Croteau of Bonnyville is the 1997 champion of the Canadian Professional Chuckwagon Association. Croteau crossed the finish line in 1:23.33 Sunday with his BMW rig to maintain his lead in the point standings and cinch the win.

Ray Mitsuing of Loon Lake,

Saskatchewan, driving for Conoco Equipment, was second in both the race and the season standings.

The weekend rain played havoc with the CPCA finals in Lloydminster this past weekend, cancelling Thursday night's races and making for slow times on a muddy track.

Child care — our future investment

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

Have you ever thought of how much investment you are making on behalf of your children when you are parenting them with the help of your "community"?

For example, "friends," "neighbors," "community groups," "religious organizations," "school," and "extended family," all spend time with your children. Then another example is added to this list when you require child care while you are at work or going to school yourself, as a parent. The "babysitter" becomes an important factor in helping you parent your children.

In today's world, with the busy lives we lead, we sometimes forget how important it is to care for, love and teach a young child the basic growing-up skills. No one can replace the parent in this responsibility; but, sometimes a parent needs help from the "community." Likewise, sometimes a parent sometimes needs help from the "babysitter."

I would like to quote from James A. Mitchener. He said, "A nation becomes what its young people read in their youth. Its ideals are fashioned then. Its goals are strongly determined. And the foundations are established for future action."

My thoughts are, if reading is this important with our young people, then child care of our youth is just as important. When I first started listing all the parent help we receive from our community, the thought came to me, do we as parents check out the value of our community support? Do we know what "things" our children are learning from these resources? Are they what we want our children to learn?

Yes, "babysitters" are important people. For people who have lived in our community for a while, we know most people, and thus we know the "babysitters." But, for those people who are new to our community, it can be a little scary in knowing who to contact to become a "babysitter" for our children.

In Elk Point, there is a "Family Day Home Program" known as Elk Point Child Care Services. EPCCS is an agency that administers the family day home program in Elk Point. We supervise and monitor a number of Family Day Home Providers. These Approved Family Day Home Providers care for children in their own homes. Number of children, nutrition, safety, and basic child development activities are monitored and meet specific standards of Child Care.

If you would like to know more information about this program, either in becoming an Approved Child Care Provider, or if you are interested in finding someone to care for your children, please give our office a call at 724-3800. After all, child care is an investment.

Terry Fox Run slated for September 14

Elk Point and district residents are once again being invited to take part in the community's annual Terry Fox Run, which raises funds for cancer research. Last year the community raised $2263, and organizers Denise Maas and Kris Ann Jenner have hopes of topping that total at this year's run.

The September 14, 10 km run starts and ends at the Elk Point Recreation Park gazebo, north of the golf course. Registration is free and starts at 1:00 p.m.. The event starts at 1:30 and participants may walk, run, bike, hop, or whatever it takes to make the journey. The afternoon will conclude with barbecued hot dogs, refreshments and cake, and prizes including 1997 Terry Fox Run t-shirts will be awarded.

Pledge forms are available at the Elk Point Town Office, the Treasury Branch and Toronto Dominion Bank.

Interested persons may contact the 1997 Terry Fox Run Committee members Denise Maas at 645-3775 (work) or 812-2414 (home); or Kris Ann Jenner at 724-2552 (home) for more information.

Praise for new golf course

By Sherry Pelech
Tourist Information Clerk

We golfed for the first time the other day on the new Elk Point Golf Course and we have nothing but praise for the very talented greens keeper who has given the greens the texture of high quality velvet. The fairways are nicely kept and the new layout of the course is both sensible and attractive although to some of us old fogies it will always be backwards.

About the only fault we can find with the new course is that they still haven't figured out how to straighten out our drives and keep us out of the trees. In fact we spent as much time in the bush as we did on the fairways.

It was while we were beating around in the shrubbery that we were reminded of Dad's favorite golf joke:

It seems that two old duffers who had been golfing together for many years were spending most of their time hunting for lost balls. "The trouble is," one of them said, "Our eyesight is not what it used to be. We just don't see where the balls are going anymore."

After a game one day they were discussing their problem in the clubhouse. Another golfer overheard them and said he had a solution for them. He pointed to an old guy, well into his eighties, and said, "See that guy over there? His eyesight is as good and sharp as ever and I know he's always looking for someone to golf with. Why don't you ask him to make up a threesome with you?" Well, it seemed like a good idea, so they invited the oldster to join them in a round the next day. When they teed off on the first hole, the old guy, who assured them his eyesight was excellent, stood behind and watched the ball. The first man drove a nice high ball that soared straight down the edge of the fairway but took a bad bounce into the rough.

"Did you see where that went?" he asked.

"Of course," the old guy replied.

The next driver, same thing. Nice straight ball down the fairway but a bad roll into the rough.

"And did you see that one?"

"Naturally. There is nothing wrong with my eyes." When they had all driven, they took their bags and headed down the fairway. After they had gone a couple hundred yards without seeing their balls, the two friends looked at the old guy and said, "You said you saw where our balls went."

"I did."

"Well, where are they?"

"I don't remember."

The highest praise we can give the newly revamped golf course is to tell you that Dad would have approved.

ALL IN THE FAMILY -- Mother and daughter, Irene Magnusson and Lyn Young, shared the Photography section honors at Elk Point Fair this past weekend.

Caffeine — are you wired?

By Shelley Miller-Hertes
Registered Dietician, Elk Point Health Centre

Caffeine is a stimulant. It increases the respiration rate, heart rate, blood pressure, and the secretion of some hormones. The "wake-up" effect of caffeine is maximal within an hour of the dose.

Caffeine is not addictive, but it is habit-forming. The body adapts to caffeine to some extent. High doses of caffeine can cause jitteriness, nervousness, and intestinal discomfort. Withdrawing from caffeine suddenly could result in a characteristic withdrawal reaction, most commonly a headache.

People who drink 8 to 15 cups of coffee a day often have complaints of dizziness, agitation, restlessness, recurring headaches, and sleep difficulties. As you grow older, your caffeine tolerance decreases. It is advisable to decrease your caffeine intake gradually, morning coffee is okay, but afternoon or evening coffee may interfere with your sleep at night.

What is a safe intake of caffeine? About 450 milligrams a day. Here are some sources of caffeine:

| Caffeine source                         | mg of caffeine |

Letter to the Editor

Preserve our recreational trail

To whomever in charge;

I would like this to be taken as a letter of objection to drilling any oil wells and also any access to the oil wells adjacent to the old railbed between Elk Point, AB. and Heinsburg, AB. This old railbed has been designated as a recreational trail for the people. I feel that any wells or any traffic adjacent to the old railbed would ruin the solitude and pristine nature of our recreational trail.

For those people that use the recreational trail, we need your support on this matter. Those people who wish to protect our recreational trail need to write a formal letter of objection and send to each of the people listed on the above letter. Also it would be appropriate to inform the County of St. Paul councillors in regards to our concern in relation to the serenity of the recreational trail.

Road allowance causes rift between County and Lindbergh residents

By Rhonda Noyce
Staff Writer

The atmosphere during last week's County Council meeting became heated when a delegation of Lindbergh residents expressed their concerns over an old road allowance.

The road allowance has not been used for 30 years, but now that oil activity has increased in the area, the oil companies are looking to use the road as an access route to their wells.

Lindbergh resident Jon Morris was upset with the Council for not cancelling the road. He says the heavy oil traffic will upset the preservation of a recreational trail that runs beside the road.

"Our only chances of stopping them now is to get a hold of Ty Lund, the Environment minister," Morris said a couple days after the Council meeting. "I have written a letter of objection and have sent it to the EUB and oil companies as well."

The controversy started when some Lindbergh residents asked the councillor in their area, Allen Young, if the road allowance could be cancelled. Young put a motion forward and Council began to apply for the cancellation.

Reeve Ray Danyluk says cancelling a road allowance is no simple task. Applications must be sent to various government departments, such as Environment, Fish and Wildlife, Lands and Municipal Affairs.

"Once we had already started the process, Young notified us that there was some objection," said Danyluk.

One of the reasons for objection was a safety matter. The only access to the old railbed, where the recreational trail now lies, is through the old road allowance.

"We needed to keep the access to the railbed open in case of an emergency," said Danyluk.

The second reason to keep the old road allowance open is because the oil companies would like to use the road and have access to their wells.

Before the delegation, Danyluk said that he personally approached the oil companies and suggested that they hold off using the road allowance until Council had a chance to meet with Lindbergh residents.

"We are trying to accommodate both the Lindbergh residents and the oil companies," Danyluk added.

One of the compromises the delegation and the Council made was that heavy oil traffic would not go through the hamlet of Lindbergh. One of the factors that will make sure of this is that the bridge on the way into Lindbergh has been ordered by the government to be replaced within three to five years. This means that the County will have to put reduced weight restrictions on the bridge before it is replaced.

Danyluk said it was ironic that they received this order the day after the heated discussion in Council chambers.

The County has also told the residents that they will work with the oil companies to plan out transportation routes so that they do not disturb local landowners.

As for the effect of the oil traffic on the recreational trail, Danyluk says he is not sure what kind of effect it will have.

Horse show to honor late founder Charlene Baker

Seven 4-H regions represented at 1997 Provincial Horse Classic

From Grand Prairie to Warner, 154 horse enthusiasts and 90 volunteer leaders representing 35 Alberta 4-H light horse clubs met in Alberta for the third annual Provincial 4-H Horse Classic.

"This is the first year we have had representation from all seven 4-H regions in Alberta," says Henry Wiegman, Alberta Agriculture provincial 4-H agriculture specialist. "The program which encourages participation has 4-H members compare horse knowledge, enhance their skills and socialize with other 4-H horse project members."

Local Elk Point Saddle Slickers 4-H Club members Alyssa Fry, Ashley Larson, Jamie Schnurer and Joan Wheat took part in the competition and activities. Joan Wheat was part of the third place team in the Junior Hippology Contest. She placed third in the Individual Junior Hippology Contest as well.

The exciting contests were for both individuals and teams. Everyone who registered was automatically entered in the Hippology Contest which tested members' equine knowledge through five phases — knowledge stations, live horse judging, identification stations, a quiz, and team problem solving.

A highlight of the program is announcing the top four senior members — based on individual hippology points — who have qualified for the Denver Western 4-H Horse Classic Award Trip, January 7 to 12, 1998. As a result of the sponsorship of Lammle's Western Wear, Leanne Folton from Bow River Riders, Susann McGowan from Killam Light Horse, Rianne Weghnar and Erin Dunkle both from Rainbow Riders will have the opportunity to represent Alberta in Denver next year.

Leanne Folton was the top senior in the hippology contest. Top intermediate was Shelli Paulsen of the Rainbow Riders and the first place junior was Tamara Quaschnick of the Berry Creek Light Horse Club. The top junior hippology team was made up of Charlene Buit from Triple R Riders, Brandi Judson from Gilby Light Horse, Kara Dykstra from West Valley Light Horse and Jasmyn Vierboom from the Hanna Prairie Riders. The Harink sisters, Stephanie and Jeramie from Triple R Riders, along with Susann McGowan from Killam Light Horse and Darcy Erion of Coronation Range Riders, made up the top senior team.

Fourth Fair aggregate for Christina Brown

Cecile Sadowinski, was up two entries from last year. Christina Brown's prize was sponsored by Woody's Trophy and Gift Shop.

Flowers, convened by Millie Orr and sponsored by the Cutting Edge, was won by Gisele Pederson.

House Plants, convened by Maryann Kozicky and sponsored by Pederson Bus Lines, was won by Edith Mitchell.

There were three winners in the Sewing section., convened by Ellen Seward. Grace Pinder and Ardis Dobson tied for the adult prize, sponsored by Capitol Drugs, while Kirsty Lindquist won the junior prize, sponsored by Cheri Lindquist.

SANTA CLAUS comes early to the Elk Point Fair.

Knitting, Crochet and Weaving is also convened by Ellen Seward, under the sponsorship of the Toronto Dominion Bank. Christina Brown won the award.

There was a mother-daughter tie in the Photography section, convened by Sharon Kuhn. Home Town Grocers sponsored the award which was split between Irene Magnusson and Lyn Young. Entries were down substantially in this section from last year's numbers.

Creative Writing, convened by Vicki Brooker and sponsored by the Elk Point Review, also suffered a severe drop from 37 to just 17 entries. Jennifer Flanders was once again the winner in this category.

Grains and Hay entries were down to only six, with five of the six first prize ribbons, along with the prize from Terry Wozniak Bulk Sales presented to another perennial winner, Brett Flanders, by convenor Lyn Young.

The Junior Fair was, as always, a huge section, although it had a slight drop in the total number of entries this year. Convenor Gisele Pederson's daughter, Erin Pederson presented the Wagon Wheel Ranch award to Jennifer Flanders.

At the other end of the age spectrum, Diane Young presented the Senior Fair prize donated by Irene Magnusson to Christina Brown, and noted that there were 37 entries in the section this year.

Diane Young also spearheaded an added attraction at this year's Fair. Antique items ranging from farm and garden tools to telephone insulators, blue glass bottles to a hand-cranked breadmaker were on display, courtesy of Mrs. Young, Paul Stepa, Irene Magnusson, John Bennett, John Robertson, Sharon Kuhn and Doris Wilson. Mrs. Magnusson also displayed a number of interesting photos of old buildings.

World wagons start 1998 season

With the 1997 championship behind them, the drivers of the World Professional Chuckwagon Association have already started their 1998 season, with a race meet at Dawson Creek, BC, August 7 to 10.

Two grand openings for industrial park businesses

A double-barrelled grand opening last Friday celebrated two new businesses which serve both the oil patch and the community at large from their locations in the Elk Point Industrial Park.

Rental King Equipment Ltd., located in what is "not the old green building anymore," on 50th Avenue, one block east of Highway 41, has been in operation since July 1, and offers a wide selection of equipment, from recreational vehicles such as snowmobiles, quads and personal watercraft to equipment such as scaffolds, power plants, ladders and power tools. With what they have now, co-owners Russ Hebblethwaite and Trent Law can cater to homeowners, industry and commercial applications. They are also keeping track of requests that come in, to see what else to add to their lineup. They are already planning to add lawn and garden equipment to the roster next spring.

Law has a substantial background in the rental business, having previously been employed in that field in Bonnyville. His connections with other rental shops will help to obtain items local people and businesses need at the most economical price. Sylvia Merrick is also on staff to help serve the public.

They offer "quality equipment solutions," with well known brand names "and the best we can get."

The business is open six days a week, to noon on Saturdays, and Law is on call 24 hours a day if equipment is needed outside those times. "Service is what we are going after."

The second opening was the recently constructed wash bay adjacent to and operated by Tarsands Steam Cleaning. The huge facility is capable of accommodating such oversize items as service rigs, oilfield tubing and tractor-trailers.

In addition to the usual wash wands, this wash facility has a third wand loaded with powerful degreaser capable of banishing oilfield grease and grime. A measuring device in the degreaser system allows the operators to charge for the cleaning product on the basis of amount used.

Water, dirt and degreaser goes into a 17 cubic metre holding tank, from which it is sucked out with a vacuum truck and hauled away for proper disposal. None of the wash water enters the Town's sewer system. Another environmentally sound factor is the presence of drip trays under the end of the outdoor racks where oilfield tubing is stored before and after cleaning.

The facility is also the home of J. B.'s Auto Reconditioning, where Jason Burshtinski does auto detailing and cleans up smaller vehicles, when he's not busy with the big units.

A CAKE TO CELEBRATE -- Trent Law (left) and Russ Hebblethwaite celebrated the grand openings of Rental King Equipment and Tarsands new wash bay last week with an afternoon of fun and food at both businesses

Report from the Legislature Benefits program for victims of crime announced

By Paul Langevin, MLA
Lac La Biche-St. Paul

A new program announced one week ago by Justice Minister Jon Havelock will help ensure victims of crime obtain needed assistance and fair treatment from the justice system. Beginning November 1, 1997, an individual who becomes disabled as a result of a crime will be eligible for a maximum lump-sum payment of $110,000.

This program falls under the new Victims of Crime Act, and demonstrates that the rights of victims are a top priority for our government. The Act combines the Criminal Injuries Compensation Act and the Victims' Programs Assistance Act into one streamlined and enhanced piece of legislation to assist victims of crime.

The Alberta Victims of Crime Act creates the authority and resources needed to ensure that victims receive fair treatment, financial and other assistance from the justice system as specified in the principles of victims' rights contained in the Act.

The Act will be phased in, as of August 1, 1997, with the collection of a 15% surcharge on provincial statutes offenses, such as infractions under the Highway Traffic Act, Motor Vehicle Administration Act, and Liquor Control Act. The surcharge will fund both the financial benefits program for victims' assistance programs.

If you have any questions about the Victims of Crime Act or any other issue, I can be reached at my constituency mailing address:

What's news at the library?

READiscover wraps up tomorrow with a Science Fair

By Michele Duczec
Librarian

As I'm writing this column,

THANK YOU

BERG

We wish to express our thanks to family members and friends and neighbors who tended our yard and garden while we were away, and ran errands for us. Thank you to those who visited Leonard in the Royal Alex and Elk Point Hospital, for their prayers, phone calls, cards and gifts. Our thanks also to Dr. D. Ramful for his concern and good care to Leonard, and to Dr. S. Coe for care to Norma. Our appreciation to the staff of the Elk Point Hospital from both of us.

Norma & Leonard Berg

the READiscover Summer Reading Program is entering its final week. The whole thing wraps up on Wednesday, August 20 with a Science Fair. Bring the whole family down to the library to see and participate in scientific displays, watch a video, and maybe do a little stargazing. Up to twenty five program participants will then spend the night at the library on our second annual sleepover.

Here is the latest in nonfiction:

The Family Reunion Planner by Donna Beasley is a comprehensive step-by-step guide that explores all the facets of creating and hosting a successful family reunion.

The Juggling Book: A Step-by-Step Guide to the Art of Juggling by Phil Hackett and Peter Owen is a focused course in juggling that can turn anyone into a juggler.

John E. Brownlee: A Biography by Franklin Foster tells the story of one of Alberta's greatest politicians and the scandal that destroyed him.

The Sierra Club Guide to Sketching in Nature by Cathy Johnson covers a broad range of subjects, including tools and equipment, shortcuts to getting the angles right, and depicting clouds and weather patterns.

In 1858, a six-year-old Jewish boy was torn from his father's arms in Bologna, Italy and taken to a special monastery where Jews were converted into good Catholics.

This event led to world-wide condemnation and the collapse of the Vatican's temporal power in Italy. David I. Kertzer investigates this event in The Kidnapping of Edgardo Mortara.

Canada's Best Careers Guide by Frank Feather gives an overview of Canada's employment picture with helpful information for people looking to choose a career.

And in juvenile non-fiction: It Came From Ohio: My Life as a Writer by R. L. Stine as told to Joe Arthur is the story of one of the most popular children's authors today and contains a number of photographs, past and present.
